What they were planning the exhibitions Interdependency Now, Jenny Markétou and Eirin Linardaki, explored states of interdependency, came to an end with an exhibition. "I came to New York to further develop a project that I began in 2019," says Jenny Markétou. "The project was a response to the global crisis and the need for a new understanding of how to work together in a time of crisis."

Peter Soriano, who joins the exhibition with a new installation, says, "I think it’s important to keep working on projects that challenge the status quo and push the boundaries of what we consider possible."

The exhibition is a response to the global crisis and the need for a new understanding of how to work together in a time of crisis. The project was a collaboration between Jenny Markétou and Eirin Linardaki, who are both based in Athens and New York. The exhibition features new works by the artists, as well as a panel discussion with Julien Gardair and Tattoo Tan.
